In case you never see this email or know how to join, I provide a little explanation.

1. Each week at 5 p.m. on Saturday the CACOR Website software ( <http://canadiancor.com/> ) issues this email message.
2. If you follow the link CONTINUE READING you see that it lists all the posted articles in time sequence with the newest at the top. If you wish, you can scroll down this listing and end up reading all 580 articles that are now in the database. There are 7 new articles every Saturday.
3. To join this mailing list, follow the instructions at the bottom of the site home page.
4. The advantage in doing this is you automatically get a weekly update without the necessity of initially going to the website. Everything is simplified and the machine memory is reliable.
