

Membership Application

What is CACOR?

The Canadian Association for the Club of Rome (CACOR) is a dynamic and informative association whose members discuss pertinent global topics with some of the most informed eminent and articulate specialists.

CACOR's vision is for its members to contribute to restoring and sustaining the natural systems of the planet, and the welfare of humankind within them.

Why would you want to join?

To be part of a group who wants to bring about change. CACOR is dedicated to promoting study, open discussion and action among Canadians on Canadian and world problems.

Our History

In April of 1968, Aurelio Peccei, an Italian industrialist, along with Alexander King, a British scientist, and some 30 other scientists, educators, industrialists, and international civil servants, gathered in Rome to share their concerns about global problems which they named the "Global Problématique" - the predicament of humankind. Out of this meeting they founded the CLUB of ROME (CoR)

CACOR was established in 1974 and was one of the first of about thirty National Associations globally whose members have interests in common with the CoR.

We aim to:

- promote among Canadians the study and discussion of world problems
- develop new policies, attitudes and courses of action
- stimulate study and research into global interdependence
- determine the impact of global solutions on Canada,
- identify an appropriate role for Canada as a global facilitator

How do we achieve this?

- by encouraging members to adopt a global, holistic and long-term perspective on issues of global importance

- by interacting with other organizations to discuss problems of global importance.
- by developing outreach projects to increase awareness and participation in solutions to global problems.

Governance

CACOR is an independent association. It has an elected board of members that meets monthly. Subcommittees allow members to participate and contribute actively in the organization.

Although most activities currently take place in the national capital region, CACOR has members throughout Canada.

CACOR Activities

Website

For further information on CACOR and related organizations you are invited to visit the CACOR Website - www.canadiancor.com

Member Groups

On the website, members have the option of joining list-serves addressing critical issues pertinent to our mandate e.g. climate change, women's issues. CACOR presently has five different standing committees, and new members are encouraged to join.

Luncheons

Frequent luncheon meetings held in Ottawa include presentations by prominent guest speakers on a wide range of relevant topics. Members are encouraged to bring guests.

Special Events

From time to time CACOR arranges special events such as symposia and panel discussion groups that further the association's objectives. CACOR also partners with groups having mandates like ours, to extend our services to our membership.

Membership Fees

Membership fees are established at the Annual General Meeting and cover the period from January 1st to December 31st. Membership fees and categories are reviewed annually. Please check the website for current fees and categories.

CACOR is an organization with charitable status

CACOR Charitable Reg. Number is: 889056271 RR 0001.

INFORMATION NEEDED

Name _____

Address _____

E-mail _____

Telephone _____

Background

(eg. Education, skills, experience, etc.)

Your CACOR Related Interests

Aims of the association

(Which you could envision promoting through dialogue and activities)

Preferred Meeting Times

Noon ___ Evening ___ Other _____

Applicants are also invited to submit CVs along with the above information

Applications are reviewed and approved by CACOR's Board of Directors.

Please return all membership application forms to:

Philip Cockshutt
Membership Committee
120 Dorothea Dr, Ottawa K1V 7C7 or epcockshutt@rogers.com

April 2019